

MORE IN BUNDLES THAN GIVERS MEANT

Some of Them Neglected to Look in the Pockets for Valuables.

CHILDREN'S GREAT NEED

Persons who unintentionally bundled up in their bundle day bundles than they wanted to keep are having hard work making recoveries and the committee and police stations are doing their best to explain why.

A woman was yesterday with tears in her eyes to the Highbridge police station and told Lieut. Oulahan that in a pocket of a suit of her husband that she contributed was a Chinese laundry ticket calling for shirts that were greatly prized because they were made by her husband's mother and she dare not tell him that they were lost. She had gone to the laundry only to hear the old ultimatum of "No more, no shirts."

The lieutenant could give her no hope. At the bundle day headquarters, 210 12th avenue, the line of shoes waiting for clothes was almost as great as ever. The cold went to the marrow of the ill clad, and even the thought or hope of warmer things failed to give them cheer. More children were noticed in the line than heretofore, some of them ill. The surprising number of unclad for children has caused the committee to look for a greater number of children's coats and sweaters.

Bundles to the extent of 350 were distributed, but the distribution has only begun, and very few bundles are to be given out to those in line. A new system will be adopted today. Women and children are to call in the morning and men in the afternoon. A great number of the men want suits that will make them presentable in new jobs which they have secured.

Emergency employment bureaus are being opened for men and women out of work. Here mothers get 50 cents a day for making clothes and may take them home when finished, and for those who have no money sewing there are bandages to be made at the same rate. Boot shops are open for the men at 10 cents an hour. Warm luncheons are served at both places.

MRS. WAGNER GETS PLACE.

Board at Heated Session Votes to Restore Back Pay.

Teacher-mothers were again the subject of many speeches at the Board of Education yesterday.

In compliance with the order of John H. Finley, State Commissioner of Education, the high schools committee recommended that the suspension of Mrs. Lora Wagner, one of the mother-teachers, be revoked, that charges of neglect of duty be withdrawn and that she be restored to duty. Commissioner John Martin thereupon moved that Mrs. Wagner's original request for a leave of absence until September be granted and the denial of that request by the board be rescinded.

"Mrs. Wagner does not want a leave of absence," said Dr. Ira S. Wiley. "She has notified me that she is ready and willing to return to school immediately. Mrs. Wagner had her baby in November. Then arose a heated discussion regarding the laws and by-laws pertaining to the matter. The revocation of the suspension of Mrs. Wagner was finally ordered by a vote of 32 to 7. She will get her pay for all the time she has been under suspension."

TEST SILENCER ON FATAL GUN.

Maxim Demonstrates His Device Before Police Officials.

Demonstration of the Maxim silencer by its inventor, Hiram Percy Maxim, in the basement of Police Headquarters yesterday showed the device to be ineffective on the ordinary revolver and by no means a complete silencer on a rifle.

The rifle used in the test was that with which Herman Auerbach killed his wife, two daughters and himself in an apartment on Central Park West a week ago last Sunday.

Police Commissioner Woods, who has been urging an ordinance to prevent the sale of silencers since the Auerbach tragedy; District Attorney Perkins; Hudson Maxim, inventor of the high explosives; the Deputy Police Commissioner and other officers of the department were present. No decision was reached by the committee. The report from the Maxim silencer, though diminished in volume, was unchanged in nature and could never be mistaken for anything else than that of a gun.

GERMANS AID WERNER HORNE.

Trunk in Staten Island Hotel Contained Only Clothing.

Daniel T. O'Connell of Boston, attorney for Werner Horne, who attempted to wreck the international railroad bridge over the Crook River, unpacked Horne's trunk in the Arretia Hotel, Tompkinsville, Staten Island, yesterday and shipped the contents to Boston last night. The trunk was practically empty, containing only a few articles of clothing. It also contained an honorable discharge from the German army, in which Horne was a lieutenant.

Mr. O'Connell asserted that the German Government had nothing to do with the attempt to blow up the bridge with its return to the United States. He had been retained through Germans in Boston, he said, who were anxious to see Horne get a fair trial.

TO FINE WOMEN WHO POWDER.

Kaunas Bill Bans Also Barbers.

False Hair and Perfume. TORPEA, Feb. 10.—A bill introduced in the Kansas Legislature today provides that women under 16 years of age who wear earrings or treat their face with cosmetics "for the purpose of creating a false impression" will be guilty of misdemeanor and upon conviction be subject to a fine of $100.

Face powder, perfume, false hair and hair bleaching materials are among the articles women are forbidden to use.

BROKER'S SONS ARE HELD IN JEWEL ROBBERY CASE

Puzzling Points Arise in Investigating Theft of Mrs. Hutt's Gems.

Floyd E. Vail and Roswell Vail, brokers and sons of Floyd Vail, a retired broker of 208 West Seventieth street, who were arrested on Tuesday night in connection with the theft of $5,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Edna G. Hutt, divorced wife of Henry Hutt, 111 East 11th street, were held in $5,000 bail yesterday in the West Side court by Magistrate House. Ball was furnished last night by their father.

The complaint against the young men was made by Detective Michael Dalton. Mrs. Hutt did not appear in court, nor did she keep an appointment to talk to reporters about the case later in the afternoon.

Dalton presented an affidavit signed by John Bohan, a private watchman of 329 West Seventieth street, who alleges that on the night of the robbery he saw Floyd Vail hand something out of the window of Mrs. Hutt's bedroom to Roswell Vail. Bohan was questioned for some time yesterday by Inspector Faunt, who said that whatever Bohan knew would be discussed in court. It is admitted that Floyd Vail was in Mrs. Hutt's apartment on the night of the robbery.

Dalton said yesterday that it was not the intention of Detectives Sheridan, Shay and himself to arrest the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Photo by Underwood & Underwood.

Mrs. Henry Hutt.

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling point in his story

is that Bohan did not arrest Roswell Vail, but only himself and Dalton.

Bohan said that he saw the Vail brothers on Tuesday night when they met them at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. He said that he told the young men of the information against them and that he wished the Vails to go to Police Headquarters to answer for it. The reason they were arrested, he said, is that they fled to get away as soon as the detectives showed their shields.

While everybody in any way directly connected with the chief persons in this case declares that the arrest is absurd, Bohan says, according to the detective, that he can support his affidavit. A puzzling